Names in the News is an independent commercial list broker that trades the Committee's mailing lists at fair market value rates. The Committee uses a commercial broker to ensure that the usual and normal amounts are charged and has no role in determining either the amounts charged or the fees it receives. The Commission's regulations concerning the reporting of contributor information for earmarked contributions received by conduits at 11 CFR Sec. 110.6(c)(iv)(A) states that Schedule A should only provide employer and occupation information if the amount of an earmarked contribution is in excess of $200. The text of the regulation is as follows: 'The name and mailing address of each contributor and, for each earmarked contribution in excess of $200, the contributor's occupation and the name of his or her employer.' Therefore, employer and occupation information for contributors who make contributions to authorized candidates in amounts less than $200 is not required.
