The Committee is in receipt of the Commission's request for additional information (RFAI) dated Nov. 15, 2020. The RFAI notes that the Committee may have failed to file a required 48-hour report of independent expenditures, specifically regarding a $6,200 independent expenditure dated Sept. 25, 2020. The Committee notes that the expenditure is below the $10,000 aggregate reporting threshold and that no additional independent expenditure was made during the reporting period that would have aggregated with this expenditure to exceed that threshold.

Although the expenditure would aggregate in excess of the limit with the first independent expenditure made during the pre-general election period, the Committee relied on the RAD website guidance that "expenditures that have already been disclosed in a previous report do not have to be included in the [48-Hour] Report."

In retrospect, it appears that the October Quarterly had not yet been filed at that time so would not have qualified as a "previous report."

The Committee regrets its error and will adopt procedures to ensure that Independent Expenditures that aggregate across periods where a prior period report has not yet been filed will be included on relevant 24- or 48-hour reports.
