To the best of my knowledge, during the 2015 - 2016 cycle, these practices were in place. If the contributor did not provide sufficient reporting information when making the contribution, the committee made at least one request for the information after the contribution was received. This follow-up request was made for any solicited or unsolicited contribution that exceeded the $200 threshold and lacked the necessary information. The request was made within 30 days of receipt of the contribution. The follow-up request may have been made orally or in writing, but any written request was accompanied by a pre-addressed envelope for the response. Requests made by telephone were documented in a memorandum. If the contributor did not respond to the follow-up request, but the committee possessed the information in its contributor records or prior reports filed during the same election cycle, then the committee used that information when disclosing the contribution. If requested information was received after the contribution had been disclosed on a report, the committee either filed a memo Schedule A with its next regularly scheduled report, listing all contributions for which new contributor information had been received; or filed amendments to the original report.
