The Committee's electronic filing software erroneously pulled information regarding two disbursements made during the Year-End reporting period and included them on the Committee's Post-General report, and then included them again on the Committee's Year-End report - where they should have been reported. Thus, the ending cash balance of the Post-General report did not match the beginning cash balance of the Year-End report. These duplicate disclosures also caused certain Column B amounts in the Year-End report to appear incorrect. The Committee has amended its Post-General report to remove the disbursements actually made during the Year-End reporting period.
