Today we received a check drawn on a bank account jointly owned by an employee and his spouse, his spouse signed the check. The employee wants the contribution to be recorded in his name; he does not want it to be a ?joint contribution?, as defined on page 10 of the Campaign Guide for Corporations and Labor Organizations. May I record it in his name upon written instructions from him, or do I need to return the check and have him issue a new one signed by him? Robert A. Lowe, Treasurer
