

FEDERAL ELECTION COMMISSION
WASHINGTON, D. C. 20463

RQ-5

AUG - 1 1997

John Lowenstein, Treasurer
International Mass Retail Association
PAC FKA IMRAPAC
1700 North Moore Street, Suite 2250
Arlington, VA 22209

Identification Number: C00112763

Reference: 30 Day Post-General Report (10/16/96-11/25/96)

Dear Mr. Lowenstein:

This letter is prompted by the Commission's preliminary review of the report(s) referenced above. The review raised questions concerning certain information contained in the report(s). An itemization follows:

-For your information, each category on the Detailed Summary Page for which your committee discloses activity must have a separate schedule. Please note this for future filings.

Any amendment or clarification should be filed with the Federal Election Commission. If you need assistance, please feel free to contact me on our toll-free number, (800) 424-9530. My local number is (202) 219-3580.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Donald L. Averett".

Donald L. Averett
Senior Reports Analyst
Reports Analysis Division

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased from 10.5 million to 13.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased from 4.5 million to 6.5 million (Office for National Statistics 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of older people, and the UK Government has set out a strategy for the 21st century in the White Paper on Ageing Better: Our Future as a Nation (Department of Health 2000). This White Paper sets out a vision of a society in which older people are able to live well, and to contribute to their communities. It also sets out a number of key objectives for the government, including the need to improve the health and well-being of older people, and to ensure that they are able to live independently in their own homes for as long as possible.

One of the key areas of concern in the White Paper is the need to improve the health and well-being of older people. This is particularly important in the context of the UK, where the number of people aged 65 and over is expected to increase significantly in the coming years. The White Paper sets out a number of key objectives for the government, including the need to improve the health and well-being of older people, and to ensure that they are able to live independently in their own homes for as long as possible.

The White Paper also sets out a number of key objectives for the government, including the need to improve the health and well-being of older people, and to ensure that they are able to live independently in their own homes for as long as possible. This is particularly important in the context of the UK, where the number of people aged 65 and over is expected to increase significantly in the coming years.

The White Paper also sets out a number of key objectives for the government, including the need to improve the health and well-being of older people, and to ensure that they are able to live independently in their own homes for as long as possible. This is particularly important in the context of the UK, where the number of people aged 65 and over is expected to increase significantly in the coming years.

The White Paper also sets out a number of key objectives for the government, including the need to improve the health and well-being of older people, and to ensure that they are able to live independently in their own homes for as long as possible. This is particularly important in the context of the UK, where the number of people aged 65 and over is expected to increase significantly in the coming years.

The White Paper also sets out a number of key objectives for the government, including the need to improve the health and well-being of older people, and to ensure that they are able to live independently in their own homes for as long as possible. This is particularly important in the context of the UK, where the number of people aged 65 and over is expected to increase significantly in the coming years.

The White Paper also sets out a number of key objectives for the government, including the need to improve the health and well-being of older people, and to ensure that they are able to live independently in their own homes for as long as possible. This is particularly important in the context of the UK, where the number of people aged 65 and over is expected to increase significantly in the coming years.