In August of 2014, it was discovered that the campaign manager for The Committee to Elect JD Winteregg had inappropriately utilized campaign funds for his personal use. Unauthorized credit card purchases included hotel rooms, car rentals, taxi fees, food and beverage, in the amount of $1316.93. After contacting the campaign manager by mail, the committee received a letter back with receipts, claiming to have legitimately spent the money. This dispute was not resolved.

Through the credit card company, a reimbursement was made to the committee's bank account, in the amount of $1206.96, because the treasurer had paid the credit card balance in full.

Respectfully submitted,

Beth Cox
