Brian Atwood's contribution was attributed to the general election, this was a clerical error, and the contribution should be attributed toward the Primary election. Thus, no general contribution refund was needed for his contribution.

Also, Joe Coleman's $100 was also attributed to the general election, it was erroneously disclosed towards the General, and the contribution should be attributed toward the Primary election. Thus, no general contribution refund was needed for his contribution as well.

Please let me know if you have any additional questions.
