'I would like to ask you to take a moment to provide us with some important information that we are missing in our records for you regarding your 2013 contributions. CWALACPAC uses its best efforts to comply with FEC employer/occupation reporting requirements by including a request for said information with every fundraising request sent to our members. The language is as follows:

"CWPAC is a Federal Political Action Committee - contributions are not tax deductible. Federal law requires the check signer's occupation and employer for yearly contributions totaling $200 or more. Corporate and foreign checks are prohibited. Each individual may contribute up to $5,000 per year to CWPAC and $2,600 per candidate per election. (Primary, Special, General)"

Furthermore, if members contributing $200 or more in a calendar year have not responded with the required information, we send a second letter, with no solicitation request, asking for the FEC required information. The language used in this letter is as follows:
